Hon. Richard J. Durbin
Ranking Member
Committee on the Judiciary
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Chairman Grassley and Ranking Member Durbin:

We served the public at the Department of Justice as career employees and appointees during both Republican and Democratic administrations. Regardless of how we joined the department, every one of us took an oath to support and defend the Constitution, not the occupant of the White House.

That oath now compels us to speak out against the nomination of Todd Blanche for Attorney General – someone who took the same oath, but has utterly failed to abide by it.

In the coming weeks, many will rightly underscore the corruption and abuses that have defined the Justice Department under Todd Blanche’s leadership: the vindictive prosecutions and investigations of the President’s foes; the deals designed to reward lawbreakers with taxpayer dollars; the erasure of accountability for January 6; the mishandling of the Epstein files; and the denigration of judges and repeated violations of their orders.

But we want to focus on an area that deserves just as much attention: Todd Blanche’s degradation of DOJ’s apolitical career workforce.

Of the more than 100,000 employees at the Justice Department, 99 percent are career civil servants. Anyone who’s worked there, and through administrations of both parties, knows they are the department’s backbone. They’re the ones who keep us safe by prosecuting violent crime, investigating drug trafficking, and countering terrorism and espionage. They keep us prosperous by enforcing antitrust laws and holding financial fraudsters accountable. They protect our fundamental freedoms by upholding civil rights laws, and they keep our elected officials honest by pursuing public corruption.

Todd Blanche knows this; he served as a career DOJ prosecutor for almost a decade. But that hasn’t stopped him from demonizing career employees, undermining their work, and driving them out of the department.

Under Blanche’s leadership, approximately 16,000 employees have left, and departures aren’t slowing down. They include FBI agents and analysts in field offices across the country, and more than a quarter of the department’s attorneys.

Blanche has fired or overseen the firings of hundreds of these employees – usually without notice, and for improper, unlawful reasons. Some were terminated for having worked on cases the President didn't like; for being relatives of the President's foes; for adjudicating immigration cases in accordance with due process; for declining to initiate vindictive prosecutions; or for refusing to lie in court. These terminations violate the very civil service statutes designed to prevent corruption and political purges.

Many more career employees have left on their own under Blanche's leadership, first as Deputy Attorney General – the department's Chief Operating Officer – and more recently as DOJ's top official. For some, their offices were left rudderless after their managers were pushed out. Others resigned rather than follow illegal or unethical orders, or they left because they feared those orders would come. Many left because leadership abandoned or drastically scaled back their work enforcing civil rights, environmental, or public corruption laws – while offices that enforced tax laws, ensured access to justice, prosecuted drug trafficking, and reduced community violence were eliminated entirely.

Blanche has also overseen initiatives to pull employees away from their mission-critical work. A quarter of FBI staff were reassigned to civil immigration enforcement in the first year. FBI, DEA, and ATF agents have been diverted from their investigations into terrorism, drug trafficking, and organized crime so they could patrol the streets of Washington, D.C. Assistant U.S. Attorneys from across the country were sent to Minneapolis and other cities to respond to protests, and many have had to adjust their dockets to defend an avalanche of immigration-related habeas cases.

Not surprisingly, the department has also struggled like never before to recruit talent. Jobs that once attracted hundreds of applicants hoping to carry the badge or represent the United States in court have gone unfilled. DOJ is resorting to desperate measures – including lowering hiring requirements for prosecutors and FBI agents, and offering signing bonuses and financial incentives for employees to stay.

The consequences of Blanche's attacks on DOJ's apolitical workforce radiate beyond the halls of Main Justice, affecting the entire country. They've meant that much of the department's vital work isn't being done, or isn't being done as well – leaving communities less safe, Americans' rights less protected, and our national security more vulnerable.

The culture of fear Blanche has instilled within DOJ's workforce must end. Respect for career professionals must return. Would-be job applicants need to believe the Justice Department lives up to the virtue in its name. And instead of exhibiting fealty to the president, the Attorney General must heed John Adams' admonition that our republic remains a "government of laws, not of men."

For the sake of the institution where we once proudly served, we urge you to reject Todd Blanche's nomination.
